Toby Aldren

Primary Directions

From the moment of your birth, imagine if someone could watch the shifting patterns in the sky for the next few hours and pace your life story from that. We refer to the natal chart for one's potential, yet these Primary Directions can suggest when one's significant life events will occur. As one of astrology's oldest forecasting tools, Primary Directions were abandoned due to the complex mathematics involved. Thankfully, they are making a resurgence with the availability of computerized calculations. In this session, you'll learn how to gain new appreciation of your own story in the sky.

Fate and Free Will

Have you ever noticed that some people seem to sail through life, almost as though they were here on holiday, while other folks seem to end up at the mercy of external circumstances? The birth chart can offer key insights into how fate and free will play out in our lives as well as pointers on how to work the chart to come out whole, even in the face of daunting circumstances.

10:45 – 11:45 am

Eclipses: How to Judge their Power and Influence

Some Eclipse conditions are stronger and more enduring than others by their length of obscuration, the accompanying planetary aspects specifically conjunctions and oppositions, and axis with the previous or next eclipse. Eclipse charts are like a running ephemeris covering six month periods. They pronounce world events and can highlight our personal chart in powerfully influential ways. All this will be covered from many years of observation and study.

Living with Duality Making peace with the Black and White

This is not simply the study of oppositions and squares but the ability to see throughout the chart, aspects and placements that do not function well together. Much of our struggles in life comes from these seemingly irreconcilable differences. The ability to extract the inherent contradictions that are often at the core of our actions and to verbalize them gives us the ability to move forward with renewed awareness. In a consultation setting, healing occurs when a client is acknowledge in this way and allows them a better understanding of some of their core motivations. This lecture is aimed at illuminating the principle of duality in the nativity and to show how acceptance versus resistance creates stability and a way towards the middle path.

2:30 – 3:30 pm

Cha'ching- The Other Money Planet

The planet of business and money is not the one you are thinking of. Sure Venus deals with valuables but business is about how you get things done and grow it. In this workshop, we will go back through time and back into the future to examine charts of what makes the world go round.

3:45 – 4:45 pm

Tracy Quinlan

Outer Planet Transits

It's true- Saturn transits can be positive and Neptune transits can be brutally challenging. Jupiter can be a pain, and Uranus can bring the good stuff. No transit is the same and there are several factors that determine what an outer planet transit will look like. This lecture will show you some things to focus on in the natal chart to individualize these transits for ourselves and our clients.
